Situational Writing - Acing It

- ✓ Know what is being asked (Purpose, Audience, Context—PAC);
read the Task before analysing the graphic for information
- ✓ Identify the 5 content points from the graphic and/or task box; the 6th content point must be offered based on the context of the situation
- ✓ Apply the appropriate format to suit the Purpose and Context
- ✓ Write out a structurally-coherent, grammatical piece of writing, with the 6 content points clearly linked to the bullet points. At all times, ensure that the purpose for writing is evident.

The pictures are provided to help you think about this topic.

Your composition should be based on one or more of these pictures.

Consider the following points when you plan your composition:

- What was the lesson?
- How was it an important lesson?

You may use the points in any order and include other relevant points as well.

Common Concerns Raised

Q. How can my son improve in his compo writing?

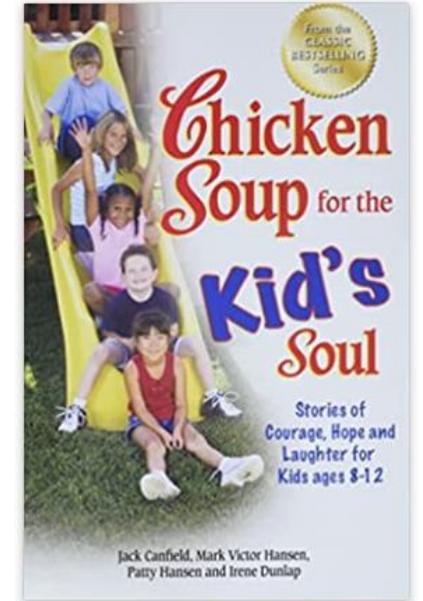

- ✓ Look at feedback written on your son's script/ materials prepared as post-writing feedback/ techniques taught in the writing booklets
- ✓ Model compos
- ✓ Start brainstorming/outlining stories which may cut across themes (e.g. planning a story about 'a proud moment' can address themes like 'teamwork' or 'overcoming an obstacle')
- ✓ Focus on expanding his vocabulary, style of writing and creating an impactful conclusion where the theme is reinforced

Common Concerns Raised

Q. My son reads widely. Why is his composition standard sub-par?

- ✓ Need to differentiate between reading for pleasure (which is most common among children), and reading for an academic purpose (e.g. to improve in vocabulary, writer's voice/style, creative ideas, etc.)
- ✓ Recommended reading: Chicken Soup for the Soul series (positive values are promoted—e.g. resilience, touching)
- ✓ Make an effort to search meaning of words in the course of reading

Parents as Partners

- Encourage your child to speak standard English
- Talk to your child about what is happening around him and encourage him to give his views and opinions
- Watch/read the news together and encourage him to give his views and opinions
- Encourage your child to write legibly and neatly
- Pertinent- Help the teachers review the errors your son is making by looking at his work whenever possible. We need him to learn from the errors made and not keep repeating the same errors again.
